Level 3 Award in First Aid at Work (QCF)

How are these qualifications assessed?

We have worked with subject matter experts in first aid to help develop a robust, yet streamlined assessment pack which includes:

Practical observation:

Completed throughout the course, this ongoing assessment will involve learners demonstrating practical first-aid skills across a number of areas.

Oral/written examination:

This will be completed via ongoing assessment with the learners on the course. This will require learners to showcase their knowledge and understanding in a number of first-aid related areas. This can be done either through oral/written means or both.

Certification:

All successful QCF learners will be issued with a First Aid at Work certificate detailing their qualification which is valid for a period of three years.

What about requalification?

These qualifications are valid for three years, at which point learners will need to re-sit the course. Prior to the expiry of the award, learners must be assessed against all learning outcomes and assessment criteria in the units. Requalification has a recommended course duration of two days. However, the course duration may be increased to meet additional learning needs if required, but it cannot be reduced. In order to be eligible to receive requalification training, learners must present a valid FAW certificate at the start of the course. However, the recommendation is that learners refresh their knowledge annually.
